PROSECUTION BEGINS REBUT-
TAL TESTIMONY.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE

Numerous Witnesses Testified Last Night as to Rainbolt's Character and General Reputation in This Community.

After the conclusion of Hendricks' testimony yesterday afternoon in his own behalf, W. T. Wells was placed on the stand. He testified in part that he saw Rainbolt and some other man in a buggy on Richardson avenue the same night the homicide occurred, and that he heard bad language and judged that they had been drinking.

C. C. Tannehill was called as a character witness, and said he considered Rainbolt a violent and dangerous man from his general reputation.

H. R. Webb also considered Rainbolt a dangerous man judging from his general reputation.

A. J. Hill was then called and testified that he did not know the general reputation of the deceased man. At this point court adjourned until 7 o'clock.

The night session was taken up with character witnesses, and the following question was asked by the defense:

"Judging from the general reputation of the deceased man in his life time, was he a peaceable and quiet man or a dangerous and violent man?"

The following witnesses were put on the stand: R. S. Hamilton, Ira P. Wetmore, L. B. Tannehill, W. P. Lewis, Robert Kellahin, Fred Roth, Oscar Trowl, Ed Seay, G. Q. Cummins, John Atwood, Wm. Tipton, John Shaw, J. C. Shearman, Charles S. Kessler, I. E. Thompson, J. X. Dunn.

W. P. Lewis did not know general reputation.

Oscar Trowl was uncertain.

Ed Seay was a reluctant witness.

G. Q. Cummins did not know general reputation.

Wm. Tipton did not know general reputation.

John Shaw was of the opinion that the deceased was quarrelsome.

J. E. Thompson judged from the general reputation of the deceased that he was of a quarrelsome and overbearing nature.

J. X. Dunn did not know the general reputation of the deceased man prior to his death.

All of the balance of the witnesses were of the opinion that the deceased man was violent and dangerous, judging from his general reputation, and several of the witnesses testified that they were not friendly with the deceased man at the time of his death.

J. C. Shearman was asked by the prosecution if it was not a fact that Rainbolt arrested him and three of his friends, and he replied, "Yes sir, but he turned us loose. The reply created a laugh, and the sheriff was busy for a few seconds restoring order in the court room.

Prosecution objected to question of defense as to the consideration Rainbolt received to release Shearman and his friends, and the jury withdrew during the argument by counsel. The court sustained the objection of the prosecution.

During the absence of the jury it developed that Rainbolt received $25 from Shearman which he afterwards returned.

Court adjourned at 9 o'clock last night, and opened this morning at 9 o'clock, and defense without introduction of further witnesses rested the case in chief at 9:10 o'clock and the prosecution immediately opened rebuttal testimony, and called Mrs. Tina Sepulver and Mrs. Becky Estep as witnesses. They were questioned as to their presence in the east room of the building where the homicide occurred and as to the people who were in the room. It developed in the cross examination that they were first cousins of the deceased man.

W. R. Estep and Charles Simerson were called and testified. R. E. Maddox testified that the deceased man was not intoxicated when he left town and then he had been with Rainbolt some hours before he went to the dance.

Oscar Pitts testified that he was at the dance and that Rainbolt was not intoxicated.

Geo. M. Chapman testified that he took a drink with Hendricks at the Grand Central saloon on the night of the homicide and Hendricks said, "I expect this is the last drink you will take with me for some time, as I expect to take a long journey," and he stated also that Hendricks said, "I am going out to the dance to see the s— who killed my cousin." Counsel for the defense objected to question and the jury was retired while the question was being argued before the court.

Court convened at 2 o'clock and a motion for a new trial for Jap Clark was heard by the court. Baker & Smith are Clarke's attorneys, and the Judge will render a decision later on.

The argument by the counsel as to the admission of Chapman's testimony was resumed before the court.
